J. Fred Herpy, 99; owned dairy farm

LITTLETON — J. Fred Herpy, 99, of Littleton, a former selectman and dairy owner, died July 1 at his home.

Born near Utica, N.Y., Mr. Herpy was born and raised in Deerfield, N.Y. His family moved from New York to Littleton in 1942 when they bought Whitcomb Farms Dairy, a small milk-processing and home-delivery business, and changed the name to Herpy's Dairy. The dairy's best-remembered feature was an outdoor swimming pool, which hundreds of youngsters used in the summer.

Mr. Herpy served the town of Littleton as a selectman from 1946 to 1960 and as a member of the Finance Committee from 1962 to 68. He was also on the board of trustees of the First Baptist Church of Littleton, with the responsibility of maintaining the church building and grounds.

After retiring in 1971, he dedicated most of his time to gardening with his wife, Ruth (Gochee), who died in 1989.

He leaves his daughter, Ann Himmelberger of Littleton; two sisters, Harriet Cutter of New Hartford, N.Y., and Ruth Card of Burbank, Calif.; five grandchildren; and 10 great-grandchildren.
