

LUTHER S. WHITE

THE LITTLETON GUIDON

FEB. 3, 1900

---

LUTHER S. WHITE was born in Littleton sixty-six years ago, and his boyhood and early manhood, as well as the last years of his life, was spent at his old home at the common. The intervening years were spent in Boston and vicinity in business. Mr. White was a man of talent and education, and was always interested in every current event of the day, and his information was always correct and up-to-date. He was a man who scorned all shams, either in religion or social life. To the few whom he chose to call friends he proved himself a genial and instructive companion, and there are those to whom in a quiet, unobtrusive way he showed many acts of kindness. None appreciated more than he, the little courtesies of life. He died Wednesday, Jan. 24, after a long and painful illness, his funeral occurring at his late home, Friday afternoon, Rev. Wm. C. Brown officiating. His presence about the common will be greatly missed. x
